Brownie Scout Troop Formed In Bay

L. W. V. Meets; To Start Unit Study

The primary meeting of the first Brownie Girl Scout Troop of Bay St. Louis will be held Wednesday, January 16, 1952, at 3:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church Educational Building on Main Street.

Mrs. John E. Morrill, Jr. will be the troop leader and Mrs. Denise Tonkel will serve as assistant leader.

The Brownie Scout program, for girls aged 7 to 10, is designed to help each girl find and develop her abilities and appreciation. It includes fun and good times, a wide range of interesting and useful activities and an ethical code that can apply in everything they do.

The name Brownies was given to the youngest members of the Girl Scouts, Girl Scouts of England, in 1915. The theme of the Brownie Scout Program was taken from a story by Mrs. Johana Horatio Ewing "The Brownies". In it can be found the underlying philosophy of the Girl Scouts as the girl of the Brownie age can understand it. Helpfulness at home, cheerfulness and courtesy are made interesting and exciting in this story.

John A. Egloff, newly elected Sheriff and Tax Collector of Hancock County, took his oath of office Monday, January 7, along with other County officials.

A. C. Mitchell, re-elected Clerk of Courts, administered the oath of office to the new law enforcement officer who was elected to serve a four year term in the Democratic Primaries last August.

E. D. Johnson, Sheriff from 1948 to 1952, is shown pinning the badge of that office on John A. Egloff, newly-elected Sheriff and Tax Collector Monday, January 7, when the County officials took office. Photo by Nelius Favre Egloff is serving his second term as Sheriff and Tax Collector, having served from 1944 to 1948.

A. C. Mitchell, who was administered the oath of office by Justice of the Peace M. D. Rathford, is entering his second year as Clerk of Courts.

E. E. Braland, County Superintendent of Education, and Clai-borne J. Ladner, Tax Assessor, who were both unopposed in the August primaries, took office Monday along with the following members of the Board of Supervisors: Joe Jones, re-elected for Beat 1; Frank Keller, re-elected for Beat 2; Johnson S. Shaw, re-elected for Beat 3; Jack Lott, re-elected for Beat 4; and R. G. Manny Hubbard, Jr., newly-elected Supervisor for Beat 5.

Mr. Hubbard succeeds Ed P. Ortle, who had served on the Board for a number of years. The new supervisor is a resident of Waveland.

Other officers sworn in were Nelius Rhodes and M. D. Pat Rutherford, Justices of the Peace; and Nolan Kingston, Constable.

At a meeting of the Board following the installation ceremony, Johnson S. Shaw was elected president of that group to succeed Mr. Ortle. Lucien M. Gex, Sr., of the law firm of Gex & Gex, was elected Attorney of the Board to succeed Robert L. Genin who resigned last month.

Observations...

By UDELL

Congratulations to our County officials who took their oath of office Monday, January 7. To those who have been in office for a number of years, and to those who were elected to serve in the August primaries, we wish a term of success and progress for the County and people they serve. May they all work together with one purpose in mind, the building of a bigger and better Hancock County free of slot machines, graft and discord. At the end of their four year term, may we see industry and cooperation in full swing.

Bay St. Louis will soon have a new elementary school building which is badly needed. This was brought about by the tremendous increase in enrollment at our local public schools this year; and overcrowded classrooms are not a pleasant thing to face for either the teacher or the students. The Board of Trustees and the Mayor and Commissioners are going forward with plans for the construction of the addition at the earliest possible date. An architect has been selected and has been authorized to draw preliminary plans for this new construction.

Those giants of basketball fame, The House of David, will make an appearance in Bay St. Louis at the Bay High gymnasium Friday, January 18. This team, which is famous for the height of its players, always promises entertainment for sport fans. They will meet the O. K. Transfer team of Gulfport, who have been regional winners in independent teams for the Gulf Coast for the past three years.

While on the subject of basketball, a group of famous sportsmen will play a benefit game in Bay St. Louis Monday, January 23, for our local March of Dimes drive for 1952. Your attendance at this game will mean a lot to some victims of polio. Your contributions to this worthy cause may mean that some child or adult, who was stricken with this dread disease, might be able to walk again or regain the use of a limb that has been crippled by infantile paralysis. Right here in Hancock County, as the picture on this page shows, we had four children fall victims to polio in 1951. It gives you a pretty good feeling to think that maybe your contribution, whether large or small, helped them on the road to recovery and enabled them to receive the best treatment available. Don't measure your contributions to the March of Dimes this year, but give until it hurts because more money is needed than ever before to stop the spread of this disease. A nicker or a dime in the iron lungs appearing in the various business houses in town, will add to dollars when the total is figured.

March Of Dimes Chairmen Named For 1952 Drive

Mrs. Theo Tudury, chairman for the local March of Dimes drive, appointed the following chairmen to serve with her for 1952:

Joseph B. Burrow, vice-chairman; H. E. Englehorn, secretary; Andy J. Becker, treasurer; William R. Johnson Jr., executive advisor; Dr. C. M. Shipp, Dr. M. J. Wolfe, Dr. H. A. Eldredge and Dr.

T. A. Quigley Jr., medical advisory committee; Mrs. Dan M. Russell Jr., chairman of women's committee; Miss Udele L. Favre and John Damborino, publicity; Pat Murphy Sr., special event.

The tripled polio incidence that has plagued the nation for the last four years has resulted in three-quarters of all March of Dimes funds being spent on the patient care requirements of the boys and girls, and the men and women, who have fallen victim to the only epidemic disease still on the increase in America.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will continue to pay for patient care of this kind because it realizes the nation must live with polio until it is conquered. But this group has set out to raise sufficient funds to do the whole job.

That job includes pushing forward on the research front as well as in the field of patient care. Otherwise, the National Foundation contends, the nation will always be fighting polio. The thing to do, it maintains, is to eliminate the need for patient care by protecting man from ever getting polio at all.

From 1938 to September of 1951, grants and appropriations authorized for research by the National Foundation totaled over $44,000,000. A third of that was underwritten in 99 leading institutions throughout the country.

March of Dimes research has attacked the problem on a wide front. The fields of chemistry, biology, pathology, physiology, bacteriology, virology and others have been enlisted in this massive people's attack on a single disease ever launched by a voluntary health agency.

It is encouraging to know that March of Dimes funds make it possible for scientists to say they are now more optimistic than ever in predicting the conquest of polio within the foreseeable future.

But March of Dimes funds are under the severe challenge of a rising, widening tide of polio. Only a rising tide of dimes can stem this challenge.

At the March of Dimes drive, Mrs. Theo Tudury, chairman, is shown receiving the first donation toward the 1952 March of Dimes drive from Mrs. Wallace Peterson, 9 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Peterson of Sellers was the first victim; with the aid of the March of Dimes funds she is gradually growing improved. Baby Joe, three, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Price of Waveland, is still in the Victorian hospital becoming treatment, and George Benoit, nine year old son of Clotilde Benoit of this city, is completely recovered from his attack and is at home with his mother and family.

Three Wise Men, with a background of choral music, and followed with full church participation in candle-lighting was held in Trinity Episcopal Church Sunday evening at five o'clock with the Rev. Willis Gaylord Clark serving as reader-instructor.

Look Behind Your Telephone!

Telephones in Mississippi are much more useful today than they were just six years ago. In those few years we have increased the number of telephones you can call by as many as there were in the state at the end of our first sixty years of business life.

That is just one of the facts you might discover if you could look behind your telephone. You'd also see the miles and miles of poles, wires and cables with which your instrument connects. And you'd find an army of people at your service—more than 4,000 of them—operators, supervisors, linemen, engineers, clerks, and technicians.

In addition to the work of keeping existing telephone facilities operating properly, you'd find them busy at the equally important business of providing facilities for more and better telephone service. That's an expensive and never-ceasing obligation of your telephone company to you.

Because of increased wages, taxes, and cost of supplies and other items, telephone rates had to be increased, but we're doing our best to keep costs at the minimum required to provide the service needed by Mississippi and the nation's defense effort.

Bridesmaid was Miss Betty Jane Holcomb, a cousin of the bride, who wore a yellow taffeta gown and carried yellow roses. Best man was James E. MacKenzie, the groom's brother, and groomsman was Fred deMetz, Jr. Ushers were Harold deMetz and James Wittmann.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents at 109 West Beach. The bride and groom cut the first slice of the three-tiered wedding cake and passed the knife to Mrs. Robert deMetz, who continued to serve wedding cake to the guests. Mrs. John deMetz presided at the punch bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie left for New Orleans following the reception and will soon return to Washington. Both Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie were graduated from George Washington university with the class of 1951.

Your HEALTH

The State Health Officer Says

The 280 local health departments in Mississippi serve more than two million Mississippians. These health units operate on funds from State and Federal sources distributed by the State Department of Health and funds appropriated locally by Boards of Supervisors and municipalities. Mississippi passes on to the counties a greater percentage of Federal funds received than do most other States.

With Federal funds needed for increasing defense efforts, it is probable that appropriations for public health, already reduced for 1951, will be still lower in 1952. Mississippi's public health program must, consequently, depend more heavily upon State and local support.

Under Mississippi law, counties may levy no more than 2 mills for public health work in cooperation with the State Board of Health. Many of the counties have already levied 2 mills; and there are only a few counties where any substantial increase in local appropriations for the next year can be expected. Mississippi is now spending only $90 a year per person for local health services as compared to the $150 minimum recommended by the American Public Health Association. If local health departments are to have the means to provide trained staff and facilities to give essential, needed services, additional revenue must be made available by the State Legislature. The situation is critical.

D.P.S. NEWS

Ceiling prices for used automobiles were reduced two percent on those listed in Ceiling Price regulation #4 on New Year's day, according to Thomas B. Terry, District Director of the Office of Price Stabilization in Jackson. The two percent reductions will take effect quarterly in the future. The used car regulation requires dealers to tag or label each car offered for sale with the make, model, line or series, any extra, special or optional equipment and the ceiling price. Dealers must allow a reasonable price for trade-ins but may not require a trade-in as part of the transaction. Dealers are also required to furnish the customer with an invoice within seven days of the sale on which certain charges are itemized. Such charges and other requirements are listed in the regulation. Further information about the used car ceiling price regulation is available upon request at the District Office of Price Stabilization in Jackson.

Legislative Views

By WALTER JAMES PHILLIPS

This is the first in a series of weekly columns devoted to informing the public in Hancock County of some of the happenings in the Mississippi State Legislature which might be of interest to them. It is the intention of this writer to keep our citizens informed in matters of Legislature which are of general interest to Hancock County. It is intended further, that all bills of a local and private nature which effect the citizens as a whole, will be brought to their attention through the medium of this column before final action is taken on them.

The first few weeks of the session will be devoted to the organizations of the Legislature. During this time, the Speaker is appointed, various jobs, such as Clerk of the House, Secretaries, Doorman and Sergeant-at-Arms are awarded. Also, during this period committees will be appointed by the newly elected Speaker of the House. These committees handle the spade work of the Legislative process, drafting bills which are not needed and making necessary amendments and additions to others. It is generally considered that the major items to be taken up by the Legislature are: increasing old age assistance and appropriating more money toward building a better school system in Mississippi, both on an elementary and high school level, and for institutions of higher learning. Other problems which the Legislature must consider include increased cost of government on all levels from the municipalities to the State. There have been various programs suggested as to what is needed; however, it remains that the major problem is, of course, financing these programs. It is believed, however, that with increased activities in the State, and with the possible increase of $0.1 in the sales tax, that it will be possible to finance at least part of the programs that are being promulgated.

On October 28, 1889, one B. R. Inman executed a writing by which he intended to dispose of his land. Now, sixty-two years later, the heirs and other relatives of B. R. Inman have been engaged in a hotly contested law suit to determine who among them now owns the land. Was the instrument executed by Inman in 1889 by will or deed? If a deed, the land would belong to one group of persons and if a will the land would belong in certain proportions to other persons.

Court Decisions Affect Land Titles

Jackson, Mississippi, December—The ordinary person would naturally think after a lapse of sixty-two years he need not worry about the title to this land, but such does not seem to be the case. The Supreme Court of Mississippi, in an opinion written by Commissioner Ethridge, has rendered a decision affecting the title to a tract of land in Wilkinson County based on the construction of an instrument written more than sixty years ago.

On October 28, 1889, one B. R. Inman executed a writing by which he intended to dispose of the first day of the month—that is, all of the checks to all of the counties were mailed out in advance on the first of the month. However, when the number became so large it was impossible to handle this many checks at one time they were broken down into fourteen units as already suggested. During the year the client gets just as much money whether the checks are mailed out the first of the month, the middle of the month, or the last of the month. In other words, every person on the payroll draws twelve checks a year.

While the instrument disposing of the land was executed and recorded as a deed, Judge Ethridge decided that in fact and law the instrument was not a deed but a will which took effect on the death of Inman. The Supreme Court used more than four thousand words in stating its conclusions and in determining who were the actual owners of the land at this time.

The decision of Judge Ethridge in this case shows how important it is for a person buying land to first have the title examined by an experienced land attorney and then to have his attorney secure for him a title insurance policy which affords not only protection against title defects but also free defense in the courts when the title is attacked.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

By W. F. Bond, Commissioner State Department Public Welfare

Assistance checks to needy aged, needy blind, needy children, and needy unemployables are mailed out each month to the individual clients in fourteen different groups of couples, beginning on the 1st of the month and continuing to be sent out ever two or three days down through the month until the 27, on which date the checks to the last group of counties are mailed out from the state office.

Up to June 1, 1950, all checks

the first day of the month—that is, all of the checks to all of the counties were mailed out in advance on the first of the month. However, when the number became so large it was impossible to handle this many checks at one time they were broken down into fourteen units as already suggested. During the year the client gets just as much money whether the checks are mailed out the first of the month, the middle of the month, or the last of the month. In other words, every person on the payroll draws twelve checks a year.

Collect $376.00 For Seals Campaign In Hancock County

A total of $376 has been received from the citizens of Hancock County by the Mississippi Tuberculosis Association in payment for Christmas Seals since the beginning of the 1951 Seal campaign. The association's president, Dr. Robert E. Schwartz, reported today. A large number of persons have sent their contributions in the last few days, having forgotten the Christmas Seals during the holiday season rush.

"Although the people of Hancock County have cooperated generously during the campaign," said Dr. Schwartz, "we need the contributions of those who have so far overlooked answering the Christmas Seal letter. We urge everyone who has not yet done so to respond to that letter immediately."

REMEMBER, it is not too late to answer your Christmas Seal letter.

HOME AGENT'S NOTES

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

Did you know that the food you choose for them can make a difference in the growth and development for your children? That the food you select can make a difference in the number of active years you and your husband can have? That the right food may prolong the vigor of life?

Yes, food makes a difference in your life. The kinds of food as well as the amount of food you eat affect your health for better or for worse. Farmers have known for many years that the amount and kind of feed fed to livestock makes a big difference in animal growth and reproduction. So it is with people.

MINERALS
Results of studies show that foods make a difference. In the list of minerals needed, research shows that women need 12 milligrams of iron a day; and adolescent girls 12 to 13 milligrams of iron.

All age groups greatly need calcium, but especially the young and aging. The standard allowance of calcium is 1 gram a day.

Milk, our best source of calcium, yields only about one-third of its calcium content to the human body. Several calcium-rich greens, as spinach, beet greens and Swiss chard, provide more of this mineral to the diet because of their acidic content.

On the other hand, various leafy green vegetables, as cabbage, kale, lettuce, mustard greens and turnip greens, furnish an abundance of easily used calcium.

An adequate supply of calcium in the diet—that one gram a day—is conducive to best health, to nervous stability and to healthful long life.

Iodine is essential to the proper functioning of the thyroid and pituitary glands. The daily requirement is 0.15 to 0.30 milligrams each day. The best way to meet this need is by regular use of iodized salt.

Iodine is especially important during adolescence, pregnancy and lactation. In certain areas of the United States and one of these is North Mississippi, the soil, water and vegetation are poor in iodine. These are known as endemic goiter areas. Iodation of salt is considered the most effective method of solving this public health problem.

A well balanced diet of properly prepared foods using the Basic 7 Chart as a planning guide will provide requirements of other minerals as copper and phosphorus.

VITAMINS
The principal source of vitamin A is the carotene in plants. Cantaloupe is an excellent source of Vitamin A.

Since B vitamins are not stored in the body, the food you eat must furnish them daily. A doctor at the College of Medicine at the University of Illinois says under ordinary circumstances you need not take vitamin pills, but should depend on food as the source of the necessary vitamins.

Ascorbic acid (vitamin C) must be included in the daily diet. Vegetables exposed to sunlight while maturing without sun damage give the most vitamin C. Use fruits and vegetables, at once or store properly. Serve raw fruits and vegetables. Vitamin C is plentiful in such foods as citrus fruits, tomatoes, kale, spinach, cabbage and potatoes as well as green pepper, broccoli and turnip greens.

PROTEINS
Proteins are classified as to their source. Animal proteins are presented in meat, poultry, fish and dairy products; plant proteins

WHAT'S INSIDE
A TREE

The pioneers thought trees were something to clear off the land, burn in the fireplace, use for cabins, and split into fence rails. You can still do those things with a tree, but you can also make . . . paper, plastics, sugar, chemicals, plywood, textiles, and a list of other new products as long as your arm.

And . . . the list is probably about half as long now as it will be in ten years. This is the reason why America has a big job in changing her forest operations from timber "mining" to timber "cropping."

We are glad to be among those who have applied a land management plan to our woods which we think will result in an uninterrupted flow of forest products from this community.

HOME GROWN MEAT

WHAT TO KILL - Select healthy fast growing animals that have been fed a good grain ration. These should not be fed for 24 hours before slaughtering;
however, plenty of drinking water should be provided. Do not run or excite animals before slaughtering as this may cause poor bleeding and a lower quality carcass.

Thin Beef, Young Beef and Lamb should be aged three to five days. Older beef should be aged about 10 days. Aging tends to make meat more tender.
The above recommendations on aging apply when meat is to be roasted. Pork, normally tender, requires no aging.

95 New Telephones Installed In Bay During 1951, Dabney, Manager, States

Telephone service to 95 additional citizens of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, helped mark another big year of community progress during 1951. J. C. Dabney, Manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, said today.

As the year ends, there are approximately 1711 Southern Bell telephones in service here, compared to 1616 at the beginning of the year, representing a gain of 95 telephones, he announced.

Mr. Dabney declared the total number of telephone lines now serving Bay St. Louis is 125% greater than the number in use at the end of World War II.

Telephone facility expansion in the community was part of a State of Mississippi program that totals approximately 15,000 telephones gained during 1951. There are now almost 234,400 telephones in service which is more than twice the number in service in the state six years ago. This required an expenditure of almost $58 million during the six-year period, $12 million of which was spent in the state by Southern Bell during the year just ended, Mr. Dabney said.

Rural expansion in the state accounted heavily for telephone growth during 1951. More than 100 rural projects were completed by Southern Bell during the year, as the company continued its aggressive program of furnishing rural telephone service wherever practicable, Mr. Dabney said.

"The Company is aware that in spite of good over-all progress in the state during 1951, a large number of unfulfilled applications for telephone service are on hand. This demand largely is a result of the economic growth of the state. We are working hard at the job of meeting full telephone service needs," Mr. Dabney said.
